30 YEARS EXPERIENCE

Fall 2009

Hello,

It was a great summer this year for me. I spent 5 weeks in Aspen CO tuning pianos for the Aspen Music Festival. Both Van Cliburn Competition winners did recitals there. Vladimir Feltsman, Yefim Bronfman, Orli and Gill Shahan, and many other marquee performers were there. The students were just incredible. They had two New York Steinway concert grands and two Hamburg Steinway concert grands to work on. What a treat! It is truly a special place and was a very memorable experience.

I also had a Steinway concert grand from Whitman College in the shop this summer getting rebuilt. It turned out to be a really beautiful instrument and now plays like new.

I have the privilege of working with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra again this year and I strongly encourage everyone to attend their events. The programming is so good and it's such a wonderful venue. They also have a venue called Soundbridge that introduces children to classical music in a very fun and creative way.

Is it time to get a new piano?

If your piano is not looking or playing properly it may be time to get a new piano but often an older piano can be put back into nice playing condition with some of mechanical or cosmetic work, saving a lot of money.

I can evaluate and make recommendations on how to keep the piano in good condition. It is sometimes surprising what can be done.

But there are times when a new piano is recommended. No one wants to spend money on a piano that is not worth it and I can tell the difference.

I also do consultations about purchasing and/or selling of new and used pianos. I keep current on the new piano market and I also do inspections on older used pianos that are for sale. Whether it is a modest upright or the most expensive grand, I will put my 32 years experience to work for you.
